

A red square seal impression, likely a personal or studio seal, with a black ink signature written over it in a cursive style. The seal contains characters in seal script, and the signature is written vertically across the center.

This image shows a blank, aged, cream-colored page, likely an endpaper or flyleaf of a book. The paper has a slightly textured appearance with some minor discoloration and small dark spots, possibly due to age or handling. A vertical crease is visible near the left edge, and there are some faint, irregular markings across the surface.
